

Sunset at the Palms Resort Offers Authentic Jamaican Stay

Negril, Jamaica (August 4, 2026) – If you're seeking an authentic escape to the Caribbean, look no further than Sunset at the Palms in Negril, Jamaica. The adults-only, all-inclusive resort offers the best of Jamaica's culture, dining, natural beauty and a warm welcome from staff all year round.

Locally owned, Sunset at the Palms showcases a side of the island that few other resorts in Negril can match. It features 85 treehouse-style guest rooms immersed in lush gardens that border the protected wetlands of the Great Morass and the Royal Palm Reserve. With nature surrounding guests at every turn, the resort prides itself on maintaining its lush garden setting and educating visitors about the island's tropical oasis through a weekly guided garden tour. The tour highlights more than 100 different species of indigenous plants and introduces guests to the butterflies, tree frogs and countless birds that also feel right at home here.

Beyond the resort's jungle-like setting is a private beach club that provides access to Jamaica's main attractions ... the sun and sand. The beach's soft white sands, calm turquoise waters and uncrowded lounging areas provide an ideal space for sunbathing or catching some of Negril's best sunsets.

Negril earns its nickname “The Capital of Casual,” and the culture of the entire island plays an important role at the resort. Guests enjoy a relaxed and welcoming stay with authentic on-site experiences. The resort offers Jamaican cooking classes, mixology classes, music including reggae and steel pan drum performances, and opportunities to interact with its beloved goats (including its matriarch, Betty). Goats play an intrinsic role in the island’s culture, and visitors will see countless herds on the way from Sangster International Airport in Montego Bay to Sunset at the Palms ... but none as friendly as Betty and her kids.

The resort also infuses a true taste of Jamaica into its culinary offerings. From island fruits like soursop to entrée courses of jerk chicken and red snapper to popular drinks including rum, Blue Mountain Coffee and Red Stripe beer, guests get their fix of Jamaican food and beverages. On select nights, the resort offers themed dinners specifically highlighting Jamaica’s most beloved foods and a Chef’s Showcase, at which the resort’s culinary team transforms local ingredients into a memorable meal in front of diners

Among the resort’s top assets is its people. Sunset at the Palms’ staff regularly earns rave reviews for their friendliness, attentiveness and ability to anticipate every guest need. The resort has a saying, “Come as a guest, stay as a friend, return as family,” and that’s not just a marketing message.
